LAWN PARTY A SUCCESS

Methodist Church and Aid Society Bazaar.

BIG CROWD IN ATTENDANCE

Haalelea Grounds are Filled With a Brilliant Throng of Patrons.

THE Haalelea lawn party and bazaar, which was given yesterday afternoon and evening under the auspices of the ladies of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Aid Society, was an unqualified success. The brilliant booths and many tiny tables dotting the grounds, the Chinese lanterns, parti-colored and many-hued, strung in and out among the trees, shedding a subdued glow over the pretty gowns and still prettier women, created a beautiful and vivid scene that could only be witnessed in a city like Honolulu. The strains of music from Berger's band sounded exquisite, and were the more delectable because not too close. At intervals the Quintet Club had played and sung Hawaiian airs throughout the day and evening, and appeared tireless. They were in fine form and never sang better.

The articles displayed for sale realized a goodly sum for the church, and many people wended their way homeward after 10 p. m., with depleted pocketbooks, but happy and satisfied hearts.

They had accomplished two things: Had an enjoyable time and bought Christmas gifts in advance, which will save them much anxious thought and time.

The children's booth deserves especial mention, because with the exception of a very few donations, the bulk of the pretty display was entirely the handiwork of children who made the articles during last vacation.

Mrs. W. L. Howard was in charge of this table, assisted by a bevy of eager delighted children, who were charmed to officiate. Some names of those who worked hardest are herewith given: Edith Lyle, Mary Pearson, Ruby Hiltz, Ella Snow and Gertrude Stanley. Some really excellent work was for sale, and comprised baby blankets, cushions, pillows, an endless variety of bags; sachet and shopping bags, etc.; many dressed dolls, even to "old mammy dolls," which were very deceptive, for when you tried to lift them you fancied they were something like the "Georgia Electric Girl"—they were so heavy. But it transpired they were fashioned out of old bottles filled with sand and dressed and blackened to represent the traditional old darkey mammy.

The tea table was set amid most attractive surroundings. It was in the very center of a palm grove and looked delightfully cool and inviting. Mrs. Kern and Mrs. Johnson presided at the tea table, and in their light gowns made pretty and charming hostesses. The ladies of the church and aid society had contributed the dainty cups and saucers, which were subsequently sold at the close of the fair.

The merchant's donation booth was the table of tables. Every conceivable thing, useful and otherwise, loaded down this groaning table, until you wondered what next surprise awaited one. There was a small silver service, cups and saucers, infants' caps, jewelry, a big chair, soap, perfume, handkerchiefs, dolls, while pieces of goods and lots of other things, too numerous to enumerate.

Mrs. Griswold and Mrs. Stone were in charge of this table.

The Hawaiian booth proved very popular. Miss Ripley and Mrs. J. M. Moore presided over it. Almost everything for which the Hawaiians are famous could be found for sale on this table—calabashes, baskets, mats, curious braid belts, cases of every description, napkin rings, photograph frames, etc. It was a beautiful and effective table.

The candy table had a host of the younger element hovering about it and buying as fast as the sweets lasted. Mrs. McAllister and Mrs. Nicholson were so agreeable it seemed a sin not to buy, and many a young man casually passing by was induced to tarry awhile with the inevitable consequence that he bore away a beautiful box of candies for which he had absolutely no personal use, but which made him an acceptable escort to some pretty girl. The grocers and confectioners had contributed largely to this table, and the bonbons were expensive, put up in pretty boxes and were sold out at fancy prices before the sale was over. Lemonade was also dispensed here, and proved a fascinating beverage.

The home-made table was a close second in the affections of the people. Here were displayed tempting chocolate and jelly and pound to pound cakes, some nutted, some iced; all appetizing. And on this counter were cold chicken, jellies, preserves, jams, bread, biscuits and crackers, so that no one had the slightest excuse for going hungry. Mrs. Bryant honored this table, and Mrs. Petrie the adjoining table for coffee.

Mrs. Coyne, Mrs. Alex. Lyle and Mrs. Batchelor were in charge of a very large booth laden with clothes and fancy work. There were displayed many pretty things dear to the feminine heart. Children's dresses, babies' slippers, aprons, socks, shoes, etc., and ladies' jackets, dressing sacques, handkerchiefs, aprons and baskets, lined, ready for use.

The small ice cream tables, dotting the lawns were largely patronized, and here merry parties gathered to eat leisurely, watch the buyers and enjoy the soft balmy air and delightful music. The Methodist Church fair was a success socially and financially.

JOB LOTS.

"I had such a funny dream last night," said Mrs. Biggs to Mr. B. "An auctioneer was selling husbands. One went for 150 guineas, one for 70 and another for 50."

"Yes, my dear," said Mr. B.; "but were there any like me?"
"Oh, yes, there were lots of them! They were tied up in dozens, and went for three-pence a bundle!"
